

SUMMER JAZZ CAMP

The IOSP Summer Jazz Camp is a day camp designed for string players with a classical, folk, or bluegrass background who have at least three years prior experience with a stringed instrument.

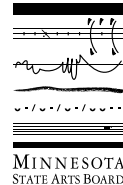

The camp is being held at the Reif Performing Arts Center. Each day will include instruction and ensemble with optional opportunities to observe and participate in jam sessions in the evenings. The Showcase Concert will be held at 7:30 pm at the Wilcox Theater in the Reif Performing Arts Center.

The camp features instruction from world class performers and highly sought after educators Tim Kliphuis, Evan Price and Sam Miltich. See www.itascaorchestra.org and follow the link to our Jazz Camp for more information and links to the instructors' websites.

Students will explore the subjects of jazz and improvisation and will learn new techniques and theory that will not only expand their repertoire but also enhance their understanding and ability in their primary area of study - whether it is classical, folk, or bluegrass.
